

I Can Share!

A beautiful lesson on sharing for little hearts (Ages 3-5)

Big Idea

Sharing is good.

Heart Goal

The child feels that sharing can make others happy and is loved by Allah.

Lesson Objective

The child notices a simple sharing moment and connects it to goodness.

Language Focus: Allah loves goodness

Story Time with Ayaan

Ayaan was playing with blocks . She had many bright colors in front of her.

Her friend Safa came and sat beside her. Safa looked at the blocks but did not have any.

Ayaan held one red block in her hand . Then she looked at Safa.

For a moment, she thought quietly.

Then Ayaan smiled and gave Safa a blue block .

Safa smiled back right away. "Thank you," she said.

Their teacher saw them and said, "That was kind. Sharing is good."

Ayaan felt warm inside. She had made her friend happy. 😊

The teacher added, "Allah loves goodness." ✨

Ayaan looked at Safa, then at the blocks, and smiled even more. Now they were building together. 🏰

Ayaan whispered softly,
"I can share." 🧡

Talk Together

- What did Ayaan do?
- How did Safa feel?
- Is sharing good?

Let's Say It!

"I can share."

Tiny Dua

O Allah, help me share.

🌟 Practice Today

Share one toy 🧸, one pencil ✎, or one small thing with someone.

Teacher/Parent Note:

Never force sharing harshly in the lesson. The goal is attraction to generosity, not pressure. Let children feel the natural joy of making someone else happy.
